

Gas Problem Statement

Problem Statement:

- In today's world, we need a way to find the lowest gas station prices. Gas is costly, which would help many people financially by finding a way to track the cheapest amount of gas.

What is the problem?

- Gas is so expensive due to inflation today that many Americans lose money on gas each month. So why not create something to help Americans find the cheapest and safest gas possible?

Why is this a problem?

- As many Americans know, gas is one of the most expensive things we use daily to go places. I would love to not worry about how much money I waste on gas. There has to be another way to fix this problem as it would improve our economy and allow us to go to the places we want to travel.

Who is affected?

- Everyone! Almost every American has a car that requires gas to go to school, work, drive, have fun, hang out with friends and so much more. We could find a way to track the prices based on location. It would allow others to enjoy many activities without worrying about paying for gas.

Where do you start?

- Everywhere! This is a problem across America as it affects everyone. Where do you start? I am not sure, but everyone deserves the same amount of gas and prices, no matter who it is.
